The University of Tokyo
(Admission Date: September 2019)

The qualification for applicants of the special admission to English Program on Intelligent Information Processing, Graduate School of Information Science and Technology, The University of Tokyo (Admission Date: September 2019) is as follows.

(Note that this document is created so to reflect the requirements of Fellowship Program of The University of Tokyo, as accurately as possible, for reference. But in case there is any difference, the original document by the document by the International Relations Section of the University of Tokyo (in Japanese) will be prioritized.)

1. Applicants must be international students (according to Immigration Control and Refugee Recognition Act (Cabinet Order No. 319 of October 4, 1951), attached table 1). Also, the applicants must not be receiving MEXT scholarship and any scholarship of foreign countries.
2. Applicants must not be persons who are receiving other scholarships or are planning to receive other scholarships, in principle.
 - a. Applicants cannot apply for a tuition fee exemption. Applicants are not prohibited from applying for the exemption, but the exemption application must be cancelled if the applicants are chosen to receive this fellowship.
 - b. Applicants cannot receive a recommendation to receive a scholarship from private companies.
 - c. Applicants are not prohibited from applying to the JSPS international fellowship, but the JSPS fellowship application must be cancelled if the applicants are chosen to receive this fellowship.

In any of those cases, they can apply Type B, and they can enter the university with declining the offered Support (B).

3. In principle, the GPA of applicants on the last two (2) academic years must not be less than 2.30. However, applicants with a lower GPA may be selected because of other merits.

The GPA must be calculated according to Form 7.

4. Nationality

Applicants must have the nationality of a country with diplomatic relations with the Japanese government. Applicants who have Japanese nationality at the time of applications are ineligible.

5. Academic Record

Applicants must have the necessary qualifications to be admitted to a graduate school of a Japanese university as a master or a doctoral candidate (including those who are certain to satisfy this requirement by the time they enter the university).

Refer the following documents for the requirements:

https://www.i.u-tokyo.ac.jp/edu/entra/pdf/19master_e.pdf

https://www.i.u-tokyo.ac.jp/edu/entra/pdf/19doctor_e.pdf

6. Language Skills

In principle, applicants must satisfy one of the following conditions:

(i) At the time of entering our graduate school, applicants have certificates from standard language tests which prove that applicants' language capability is no less than CEFR B2 (see ※ below).

(ii) Applicants completed the education, that is required for entrance of master's program or doctoral program of Japanese universities (see Section 5 above), using English as the main language.

(iii) The receiving university (i.e. the University of Tokyo) evaluated that applicants have English capabilities better than that required at (i).

In case of (i) and (ii), the applicants must provide documents that prove those conditions. In case of (iii), pre-interview will be conducted, so make a contact before the prescribed time.

However, applicants with slightly lower English skills may be selected because of other merits.

- ※ English scores which can certify that applicants have English capability no less than CEFR B2 :

- Cambridge English Assessment – No less than 160

7. Health

Applicants who have been evaluated by the University of Tokyo that their mental and physical health will not bring trouble in studying in Japan.

8. Visa

Applicants should obtain a resident status of “College Student” at entering the university.

Those who already have other residency status (permanent resident, long-term resident, etc.) will be required to change your status to that of “College Student”. There is no guarantee that applications to change your status back to “Permanent resident” or “long-term resident” etc. after your graduation will be approved.

9. Pausing and Resuming the Fellowship

In case that fellowship recipients cannot conduct educational and research activities at The University of Tokyo for more than one month consecutively (including being away from Japan for more than one month consecutively), the fellowship will be paused. However, in the case that recipients are not on leave but are away for joint supervisions or fieldworks, the fellowship might not be paused if the dean, the supervisor, and the head of the international relations division in charge approved.

The head of the international relations division can resume the scholarship, when the student, whose fellowship is paused because of one of the above reasons, provide documents that proves the reasons of the pause have ceased.

10. Abolition of the Fellowship

The fellowship will be abolished at the following events. If any of these events occur, fellowship recipients may be ordered to return a part or all supports they have received. The support may be paused during the time until the decision is made.

- a. Recipients resign from The University of Tokyo.
- b. Recipients are suspended from The University of Tokyo.
- c. Recipients' academic performance becomes unacceptably low.
- d. Recipients do not report on research progress at any academic year.
- e. There becomes a reason that the fellowship is unnecessary.
- f. There is any other reason that recipients are inappropriate as UTokyo fellows.

11. Compulsory Report

- a. Fellowship recipients must submit a report on their research progress at the end of each academic year.
- b. In the case that recipients change addresses, names, contacts, or other personal information, the recipients must report the change as earliest as possible.
- c. In the case that recipients desire to quit the fellowship, the recipients can ask a quit.
