What is Japanese Government (MEXT) Scholarship Students (University Recommendation [General Selection])?

Japanese Government (MEXT) Scholarship (University Recommendation [General Selection]) allows each Japanese university to conduct the recruitment and preliminary selection and recommend candidates to Ministry of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology, MEXT. The scholarship is designed for students to start their studies only in October each year. If accepted as a MEXT scholarship student, applicants will enroll as a “Graduate International Research Student (non-degree)” in the Graduate School of Information Science and Technology. To advance to a master's or doctoral program while receiving the MEXT scholarship, applicants must take and pass the regular admission of the Graduate School of Information Science and Technology after arriving in Japan. Additional detailed conditions must adhere to the regulations set forth for the Japanese Government (MEXT) Scholarship (University Recommendation [General Selection]).

Things You Need to Check Before Applying

Applicants are advised to send an inquiry via email to the contact listed in Section 9 (Office of International Relations) to confirm their eligibility based on their nationality. If deemed eligible, applicants should first contact the professors at the Graduate School of Information Science and Technology to obtain an unofficial agreement for acceptance. Once this agreement is received, applicants should prepare and submit all application materials in accordance with the guidelines provided.

1. Requirement of Eligibility

Applicants must satisfy the conditions specified in Attachment 1.

2. Selection Process

Based on the documents specified in section 6, the selection committee will review the applicants' academic ability, research achievements, research plans, etc., and make a comprehensive selection. Those who pass the selections with high scores will be nominated as MEXT scholarships applicants to the university headquarters by the Graduate School, within the designated number of nomination slots. After selection at the university headquarters, applicants are recommended to the MEXT. If they are ultimately selected after selection by MEXT, it will be eligible for the support listed in section 4 below. Those applicants who pass the entrance examination but are not selected as a MEXT scholarship recipient are still allowed to enter IST, as privately financed international students with or without other scholarships.

3. The Expected Number of Selected Applicants

1 or 2 students (The number of students that can be recommended to the university headquarters will be determined after the application period).

Applicants can choose any department of IST, i.e., Department of Computer Science, Department of Mathematical Informatics, Department of Information Physics and Computing, Department of Information and Communication Engineering, Department of Mechano-Informatics, or Department of Creative Informatics.

4. Support of MEXT scholarship (University Recommendation)

(1) Scholarship amount: 143,000 yen/month for graduate international research student (non-degree).

Additional 2,000 yen or 3,000 yen will be granted to those who live in specific areas.

(2) Exemption of the exam fee, entrance fee, and tuition.

(3) Travel expenses to and from Japan (only if certain conditions are met)

(4) Duration of Support: For those who are enrolled as international research students (non-degree) after arriving in Japan, the support period is generally from October 2027 to March 2029, for a maximum of 1 year and 6 months. Those who wish to continue receiving MEXT scholarship while advancing to a regular degree program should refer to Note 1 below.

Note 1: For graduate international research students (non-degree) who wish to advance to the master's or doctoral programs and meet certain criteria, particularly those with excellent academic performance, it is possible to apply for an extension of the scholarship support period associated with their advancement. This extension may be approved based on an examination by MEXT; however, it is not guaranteed. Please take note of the following points.

- ① In order for the extension of the scholarship support period to be approved, the recipient must be selected for the extension application, pass the entrance examination for the regular degree program of the graduate school they wish to enter, and successfully enroll.
- ② Extending the scholarship period as a graduate international research student (non-degree) is not allowed.
- ③ Recipients who advance to the master's or doctoral programs without being selected for the extension application will have their scholarship support terminated (however, proceeding or enrolling as a privately funded degree international students are permitted).
- ④ When advancing from graduate international research students (non-degree) to a regular degree program in a graduate school, transferring to another university is not permitted (however, it is possible to transfer to another university as privately funded degree international students).

Note 2: Detailed conditions for receiving MEXT scholarship follow the rules for the Japanese Government (MEXT) Scholarship (University Recommendation [General Selection]).

Note 3: Amount of the scholarship may be changed depending on the condition of Japanese governmental budget.

Note 4: Besides the screening at the University of Tokyo, applicants must undergo MEXT screening process as well. Scholarship will not be granted if the applicants fail either of the screenings. Result of the MEXT screening will be announced to the applicants around June 2027.

5. Application Process
