

AY2024 Entrance Examinations
Graduate School of Information Science and Technology, the University of Tokyo
Transfer Application Form for the Online Examinations

If you wish to be transferred to the online examinations, submit this form at the timing of the application. The conditions for the transfer to be allowed vary for each department; check the admission guide of the department. Applicants will be notified whether they are allowed to be transferred when their Examination Admission Cards are delivered. If the transfer becomes necessary after the application period, e.g., due to COVID-19, submit this form via email (i) to the admission office of the graduate school for the general education subject (mathematics), (ii) to the office of Department of Creative Informatics for the general education subject (programming), and (iii) to the department office for specialized subjects. In that case, the approval of the transfer will be notified via email. Once the transfer is approved, all the examinations will be conducted online afterwards whenever their online versions are available. (You cannot choose on-site versions partially.)

In the ‘Zoom Account’ field below, fill in the name of the Zoom Account that is supposed to be used at the online examinations. Those who do not have a Zoom account should create one. If you have difficulty creating an account for some reason, explain it in the “Zoom Account” box below.

There are some notes and restrictions specific to the online examinations. Carefully read the “Notes on the Difference between Online and On-site Written Examinations” before applying for the transfer.
