Items 1 through 6 are basic information about studying abroad.

1. Study abroad system at the University of Tokyo

There is a system called "Study Abroad" that allows students to take courses and earn credits at overseas universities when the Dean of the Graduate School finds it beneficial for education (Article 28 of the Graduate School Regulations). There is also a system such as "leave of absence". Please be sure to contact the Office of Graduate School of Information Science and Technology or the departmental office for necessary procedures in advance.

2. Program offered by university ("leave of absence" is not allowed with this program)

This is a public recruitment type program for current students. The main one is "study abroad based on the student exchange memorandum". Students will be recommended to the partner university/institution through the University of Tokyo. Application eligibility, application method, availability of scholarships, etc., will differ depending on each program, so please check the details carefully in the application guidelines when applying.

(1) Student Exchange between UTokyo and partner universities with memorandum (6-A, B)

UTokyo can send students for student exchange program to universities that have "Agreements" and/or "Memorandums" with UTokyo. Students will be exempt from paying tuition at the university where they are attending abroad. However, the students must still pay tuition at UTokyo.

- (b) Exchange Program through Graduate School of IST

3. Direct Application Programs

This is a program that you can apply directly as an individual without going through a university. Since you will have to complete all the procedures in the application process yourself, please check the website of the host university / institution for detailed information then apply and participate at your own risk. If you have any questions about one of those programs, please contact that university or institution directly.

4. Risk Management

When traveling, please be sure to take out overseas accident insurance, study abroad insurance, etc., before departure. In addition, the University of Tokyo has prepared the "Overseas Travel Risk Management Guidebook". Please read carefully before traveling and strive to ensure your safety.
